

ABSTRACT

The invention presented is a mechanical apparatus and method for protecting plants. The apparatus includes a surface which bugs and crustaceans will not crawl up and over. Additionally, the shield is coupled 5 with a wall that extends beneath the surface of the garden and prevents the entrance of gophers and moles. The shield is preferably placed around the border of a garden or located on the surface of a plant pot.